dies of the National Education Association). The volume comprises a collection of articles treating supervision in the secondary school, the junior high school, the middle grade and even the one and two-teacher schools. The yearbook proposes to contribute toward the need for material "dealing with supervision in the social studies with actual applications in the materials and language of those subjects." Paper. 260 pp. Price, $2.00.

CHARLES C. THOMAS, 220 East Monroe Street, Springfield, Illinois:

Child Psychology, by Buford J. Johnson, Professor of Psychology, Johns Hopkins University. This practical, interesting treatment of child behavior is based upon direct observation of children in self-initiated activities. In addition, the results from scientific researches of many investigators upon special topics in child psychology are included. Original and fundamental factual data, derived from the author's unusual opportunity to study critically the problems in child development and to interpret child behavior from carefully planned investigations conducted at the Child Institute of the Johns Hopkins University, are given. Cloth. Illustrated. XII and 440 pages. Price, $4.00, postpaid.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS, Stanford University, California:

Teachers' Salaries and the Cost of Living, by Walter Crosby Eells, Professor of Education, Stanford University; second in the School Economy Series, edited by Ray Lyman Wilbur. Provides a definite factual study of existing conditions, and sets up a method for measuring the cost of living for the teaching group in a particular locality. The author has found that at least seven factors conspire to make the index number of the cost of living, computed by the Bureau of Labor Statistics distinctly unfair as a gauge for the determination of a level for teachers salaries. Each of these topics is treated in a chapter. They are: (1) the weights used in the construction of the index number; (2) lag in decrease in the price of board; (3) lag in salary increases; (4) variation of the index number in different localities; (5) increased burden on teachers as a result of the depression; (6) the adequacy of the 1913 salary level; and (7) higher standards of preparation on the part of teachers since 1913.

Paper. 94 pp. Price, $1.00 net, postpaid. The Series (eight titles), per set, $7.00 net, postpaid.

Meeting of Board of Directors

● THE Board of Directors of the Illinois State Teachers Association held their regular quarterly meeting at the Medinah Athletic Club in Chicago on Saturday, April 29, 1933.

The meeting was called to order at 9:15 o'clock a. m. by President F. Blanche Preble. All other members of the Board were present: namely, George O. Smith, N. M. Mason, A. Lulu Hill, and Frank A. Jensen. There were present also Secretary Robert C. Moore and Treasurer Charles McIntosh.

Mr. McIntosh was asked to make a report of the finances of the Association. He first stated that there had been absolutely no loss of funds that had come into his hands; however, he had received a few checks from Divisions that failed to clear the banks. Upon motion which was duly seconded and carried by unanimous vote, Treasurer McIntosh was authorized to sell the bonds he has on hand if necessary to pay bills. Mr. McIntosh then filed the following financial statement:
